Remain detached from all results, ready to fight or ~~win~~ win, to win or lose, and always ready to laugh at all things, take whatever comes your way in life, you say, or you cannot pay the rent. They will, except some fools and face them. Are they not trouble enough in themselves, without adding the aggravation of worry to them? Why add the tension of emotion - brought to a situation which is (a) illusion, (b) to the extent that it is real, of passing moment, and (c) in any event the result of previous causes? Do what seems wise to be done, forget it and walk on - even if you come to a precipice, why walk round it or back from it? Why not go over it? It is probably the chance was there.
